

Community Update

As the area bounces back from the pandemic, many opportunities lie ahead.

In Denbigh, I am working closely with the community over a number of issues including the former North Wales Hospital, town centre parking, at-risk historical buildings and the potential to reinvigorate plans for a cycle path from St Asaph and the coast, via Denbigh, to Ruthin.

Work in St Asaph has been focussed around the need to implement further flood defence and preventative works, following on from the storms of early last year. I have also assisted residents in securing reduced noise from the A55 flyover – although there is more work to do in relation to adjacent stretches.

Likewise, I am working on potential options to reduce the disturbance caused to residents by noise emanating from the Rhuddlan bypass.

on the A55, directing visitors to these much-loved but frequently overlooked historical landmarks.

I am very aware of the ongoing concern at the loss of Llanerch Bridge, between Trefnant and Tremeirchion, and am pressing the county council for action. I have also been liaising closely with stakeholders in Llandyrnog regarding the future of the creamery site, have supported residents in opposing controversial travellers' sites, and raised rural broadband inadequacies at Prime Minister's Questions recently.

WORKING TOGETHER TO DELIVER MY PLAN

The Value of our Environment

my plan

The protection of our environment remains high on the national agenda, and I am keen to reflect that locally. Flooding in the area in recent years has been devastating for a number of residents and I continue to work to ensure that we are better protected in future.

I am also doing what I can to prevent new housing developments being built on land which is susceptible to flooding.

I recently hosted a Vale of Clwyd Climate Summit, during which three expert panels engaged constructively with residents to consider how we can all behave in an environmentally-friendly way. Green energy opportunities for our region were also discussed – from tidal energy to hydrogen production, and carbon capture and storage. At Parliament, I am engaged with proposals to tackle air pollution and litter and to introduce a new deposit return scheme.

Animal welfare issues are receiving increasing attention and I have been pleased to support legislation to ensure animal abusers face tougher sentences.

Jones Bros demonstrate their plans for the North Wales Hospital site in Denbigh, and their excellent apprenticeship programme.

What 'Levelling Up' means to the Vale

my plan

The Levelling Up agenda seeks to ensure that all parts of the UK have the resources they need to thrive. The UK Government is making tens of millions of pounds available within Denbighshire alone.

The 'Levelling Up Fund' is intended to deliver high-value regeneration projects and I am already in advanced conversations with local stakeholders to establish priorities.

I have been pleased to support dozens of organisations in applying for support through the 'UK Community Renewal Fund', which is evolving to replace the former EU structural funds. The 'UK Community Ownership Fund' has also been launched. This allows local organisations to purchase at-risk facilities, such as sports grounds, pubs and corner shops.

At the Budget, Chancellor Rishi

The UK Government is making tens of millions of pounds available within Denbighshire alone.

Sunak accelerated funding for the North Wales Growth Deal, bringing the prospect of new jobs and opportunities to the region. It is hoped that projects to be supported can include the redevelopment of the former North Wales Hospital in Denbigh, the expansion of high-tech engineering industries at St Asaph Business Park and town centre redevelopment at Rhyd.

I am keen to assist local companies to make the most of new trade deals emerging since Brexit and recently held the first of a number of Export Programme events.

FOR VALE OF CLWYD

Healthcare a priority beyond Covid-19

my plan

At the election, I pledged to work to bring NHS services in North Wales up to standard. At that point, none of us knew that existing challenges would be compounded by the largest health emergency in living memory. Despite the immense pressures that health and care staff have been under, they have worked tirelessly to protect us all. I have been proud to work with colleagues to deliver vaccines into arms locally, and thanks to our world-leading programme, we can now look beyond the pandemic to refocus on the challenges facing the local health board.

As a GP and member of the Commons Health & Social Care Select Committee, I have first-hand experience of how the healthcare system in North Wales is letting too many people down. My inbox is full of concerns from those who have suffered as a result. I am working with key individuals to see the introduction of UK-wide comparable access and choice to hospital services across the country, regardless of where in the UK we live.

I want to use my position to ensure all constituents can access the best physical and mental healthcare as soon as possible. I am also pushing for equal

my plan

More police officers to tackle crime

Since the General Election, North Wales Police have recruited 147 new police officers as part of a national effort to boost numbers by 20,000.

North Wales Police and Denbighshire County Council were awarded £517,000 by the Home Office to roll out the 'Safer Streets' programme in west Rhyl. This has seen the delivery of hundreds of 'crime prevention packs' to residents and the installation of CCTV cameras. There is also a new community garden, a newly established Community Champions Group, and there are new digital locks on existing alley gates. These activities are helping create a safer environment and combat criminality such as shoplifting, burglary, vehicle crime, and robbery. They also assist tackling County Lines drugs supply. Recently, all five identified county lines drugs telephones supplying in Rhyl were shut down and all 16 individuals concerned were arrested.

I hold regular advice surgeries offering help and support to local people. To arrange an appointment, please email or call me.

Digital and Transport Infrastructure to help North Wales build back better

As so much has moved online over the past 18 months, many have been frustrated by poor broadband connections. I have been engaging with the UK Government, the local council and Openreach to prioritise North Wales in their plans for both broadband connectivity and mobile phone coverage.

Since the General Election, North Wales is now represented by several Conservative MPs, and we work as a powerful team fighting for the interests of the region. We believe that improving our rail and road infrastructure is vital for the area's future. As chair of our regional all-party group in Parliament, I am pushing very hard for more ambitious proposals, delivered sooner. I am very pleased that the A55 and regional rail links feature in the UK Government's 'Union Connectivity Review', which sets out priorities for action.

A personal message...

DR JAMES DAVIES

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT FOR VALE OF CLWYD

It is an honour and privilege to represent the Vale of Clwyd at Parliament. The period since the election has been incredibly busy – I have personally processed 80,000 emails, helped 3,750 constituents with individual cases and responded to 5,700 policy enquiries. I have made 83 spoken contributions in the House. At the height of the pandemic, I and my team were working daily into the early hours to provide assistance, and it has been rewarding to help so many through such turbulent months.

Covid-19. Whether you volunteered to help your neighbours or those shielding; supported the vaccination programme; provided comfort and support to those around you; or simply followed the restrictions to help save lives – it is appreciated.

The Government has worked to protect individuals, families, businesses and communities, via the furlough scheme, business grants, rapid and more generous welfare support, a world-beating testing and genomic sequencing capability, a successful vaccination programme, and now efforts to help get people back into work.

I look forward to helping move the area forward as we emerge from this challenging period.

I would also like to thank all who played their part in other ways in our fight against

Best wishes
